

PIMA COMMUNITY COLLEGE TRANSFER PATHWAY

NUTRITION & FOOD SYSTEMS B.S.

Students in Nutrition and Food Systems examine the factors that affect our food systems including production challenges in an arid desert region, cultural influences that shape cuisine, and the relationships between food security, nutrition, and overall health. Students apply scientific evidence, best practices, and their professional judgment to seek solutions to better manage the food supply chain from production to processing, distribution, consumption, and waste control while preserving our environment and safeguarding human health.

TRANSFER EQUIVALENCIES
